RESUME OF ROLAND WILLIAM GARWOOD

Roland W. Garwood, Jr., was born in Bogotá, Colombia, on 13 April 1945. He attended Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, where he received the Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering in 1967. In 1976 he received the Ph.D. in Oceanography from the University of Washington in Seattle.

Between 1965 and 1967 he was employed as an electrical engineer by the U.S. Navy Underwater Sound Laboratory at New London, Connecticut, with assignments in the Anti-Submarine Warfare, Submarine Sonar and Oceanography Divisions.

From 1968 to 1971 he held a commission in NOAA Corps of the Department of Commerce. During this period he was assigned to the NOAA Ship RAINIER for oceanographic and hydrographic surveys, and to the National Weather Service as an oceanographer/meteorologist.

In July 1976 he accepted an appointment as an Adjunct Assistant Professor at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, where he conducted research in the Department of Oceanography, specializing in the dynamics of the ocean mixed layer and simulation modeling of upper ocean phenomena and air-sea interactions. In November 1979 he was appointed Assistant Professor.

He is a member of Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, Pi Mu Epsilon, the American Meteorological Society and the American Geophysical Union.
